Although it is not mandatory to provide all the information contained in this privacy policy, Scave.World may not be able to provide you with all possible services if you choose not to.

How do we collect your personal data

We generally collect your information when you decide to interact with us, for example when you sign up to receive emails or newsletters from us. We also analyze how visitors use our website so that we can provide the best possible experience, whether you want to learn more about our latest projects, read blogs or just browse our website.

We collect data in several ways:

- When you sign up for newsletters
- When you visit our website: We use cookies to improve the experience when you visit the website and to tailor the service you receive from us - this means that we remember your previous visits and track which pages of the website you visit. For more information, see the cookie policy. When you visit a Scave.World website, the web server automatically stores your public internet protocol address ("IP") and generates a log file.

The data categories collected by us

We only collect data that is necessary for our business operations, delivery of the services you have requested and to keep you informed. Sometimes you have the option of not providing us with certain information, but this may lead to a lesser degree of personalization, for example not being notified of an event you would have been interested in.

The data we collect depends on where and when it is collected:

Information we receive directly from you:

When you fill our contact us form or register on our website, we need to collect information from you in order to provide the service you have requested.

We may collect the following information:

- Prefix and name
- E-mail address
- Telephone number(s)

During your visit to our website, we may collect the following information:

- Auto-filled IP address:
A public IP address is a unique number that allows a computer, group of computers, or other Internet-connected device to use the Internet. The log file stores the date and time of your visit, which pages were requested, the referral website (if stated) and the version of your browser program. This data is collected for diagnosing and managing the website, to determine the geographic distribution of visitors and to find out how they got to the website.

- Cookies:
Cookies are only placed after obtaining your consent.
For more information about cookies and how Scave.World uses them, see the Scave.World cookie policy.

Social media

Depending on your settings and / or the privacy policy for social media or messaging services such as Facebook, WhatsApp or Twitter, you can grant us permission to view the data of these accounts or services.

Publicly Available Information

We may include information published in articles / newspapers or other publicly available sources.

Why do we collect and use your personal data

The information we hold about you is used for various purposes. These are the most important:

1. to provide the service you have requested.
2. to provide a personalized experience
3. to notify you of events or updates you have requested
4. to contact you if we require additional information or should provide.

In particular, we use the collected data in the following ways:

For our business operations, provision of a service or fulfilment of an agreement with you:

- Your information is necessary to handle requests for support and information or to conduct internal processes, such as recruitment or event administration.
- Your information will be used to provide you with the best possible customer service and for internal administration.
- Your information will be used to contact you if we have important information about your application, such as confirmation of your attendance at an event or communication regarding your application.

Processing we do with your permission:

- You can provide us with your details so that we can keep you informed of our activities by email, through newsletters and communications regarding future events.
- You can provide your information so that we can inform you about a specific product or service about which you would like more information.

In those cases where we have a legitimate basis (such as a legal obligation and legitimate interest):

- To get to know your interests and preferences so that we can approach you with information that is relevant to you.
- To help us send targeted marketing communications and advertisements to make them more relevant to you.
- To measure and understand how our customers respond to various marketing activities so that we can ensure that our activity is well focused, relevant and effective.
- To analyse and constantly improve the services we provide, especially regarding our website.
- To run the test version of our website that we use internally to try out new functions and ensure the smooth operation of our web services.

How we and other organizations process your data

Scave.World will never share, sell, trade or rent your personal information to third parties for marketing purposes without your prior consent.

Some of our service providers may have access to your information to perform services for us; Examples include sending newsletters or hosting our website.

We ensure that each party providing services for Scave.World enters into an agreement with us and complies with our data protection standards. These third parties do not use your data for any other purpose than the clearly stated purpose in connection with the service they provide.

We may share your information with:

- Service providers who work on behalf of Scave.World for the performance of an agreement that we conclude with them or you, for example, marketing agencies, database services, website hosting or email delivery services.
- Third-party data services, that help us segment and understand our target audience by providing additional information so that we can send communications that are as relevant and targeted as possible.
- Third party advertisers (such as Facebook and Google) to help us find customers similar to our customers or to show you relevant ads on third party websites. The data shared with these advertisers is pseudonymised to protect your personal data.
- When we are obliged to do so, for example at the request of the police or a supervisory or governmental body investigating unlawful activities.

Scave.World is not responsible for the privacy statements and practices of other non-Scave.World affiliated websites, even if they are accessed through links on www.Scave.World.com or any other website owned by Scave.World. We recommend that you review the privacy statements of each website you visit and contact the owner or data protection officer of that company if you have any concerns or questions.

Despite all our precautions, we cannot guarantee that data transmission over the internet is 100% secure. Therefore, we cannot guarantee the security of information you provide to us and would like to point out that you do so at your own risk.
